

ROSE MAIDEN A GREAT SUCCESS

Large Chorus And Four Soloists Take Part

RESULT OF MUCH WORK

Students Drilled For 2 Years For Production Of Cantata

Magnificent in its production, "The Rose Maiden", by Cowen, was rendered by 250 voices assisted by four soloists, at the high school auditorium Wednesday evening before an audience of 400 enthusiastic and appreciative people.

The chorus in itself formed a beautiful setting for the rendition of the cantata. About 200 girls, dressed in white frocks, were in the center while about 25 boys were on each side.

Miss Agnes Ahrendt introduced the cantata with a piano selection at the close of which she was presented with flowers by R. A. Chubb on behalf of the chorus.

Prof. R. A. Chubb deserves special commendation for his work. He has been drilling high school students for two years on different parts of the cantata and at last the height of his ambition in this direction has been attained—a complete triumph.

The many voices blended together almost perfectly and the harmony, as interpreted by the chorus, was above reproach. At the close of "Tis Thy Wedding Morning", which magnified tremendously the versatility of the chorus, Prof. Chubb was presented with flowers.

The soloists, Mrs. Lee Myers, Mrs. Edgar Thomas, George Kelly and Norman G. Turner, rendered their parts in excellent style. Mrs. Myers' voice being particularly voluminous and at the same time sweet and appealing.

Strength in Truth.

We think that we shall win truth by striving after strength, instead of knowing that we shall gain strength just in the degree that we become true. —Phillips Brooks.

To prevent suffering next winter the government is advising every one to lay in coal. Most houses are not equipped to store a full winter's supply of coal and the supply usually becomes exhausted in the coldest part of the winter, when transportation is most difficult.

It may therefore become necessary to enlarge your coal bin in your basement or build an outside bin for storage of next winter's coal supply.

Estimate your needs for next winter's coal supply and buy now.

From 1914 to 1918 the French women have borne the burden of agriculture. Their wounded men, broken and disabled, have come home to them to be cared for. Tuberculosis attacks their poorly nourished children. These women have been the chief laborers for the fields.
